Welcome to Hellora

Your getting started guide.
Everything you need to go live and get the most from your AI phone receptionist.

AI Phone Receptionist

What Hellora does for you

- Answers every call in a natural voice, any time of day, including nights, weekends and holidays.
- Books appointments straight into your calendar.
- Takes messages and sends you a clear summary of each call.
- Passes urgent calls to a person when you want it to.
- Follows up on enquiries and sends reminders, so fewer leads and appointments slip away.

Getting started in 4 steps

1. Tell us about your business
   After your payment you receive an email with a short form (about five minutes): your hours, services, common questions, how you take bookings, and when to pass a call to a person.

2. We build your receptionist
   We set it up from your answers and send you a test phone number.

3. Call it and tell us what to change
   Phone the test number a few times. Ask about prices, book a visit, ask for a person. Reply to our email with anything you would like changed.

4. Go live
   When you are happy, forward your business calls to your Hellora number. We help you with this step (see page 3).

Tip: the more detail you give in the form (your usual questions and answers, prices you are happy to share, who should take urgent calls), the better your receptionist sounds.

Forwarding your business calls

Call forwarding sends calls from your existing business number to your Hellora number. You keep your number. We recommend starting with forward when unanswered or busy, so your team still takes the calls it can and Hellora catches the rest.

Option	What happens
Forward when unanswered / busy (recommended)	Your phone rings first. If nobody picks up, or the line is busy, Hellora answers.
Forward all calls	Hellora answers every call. Good for after hours, holidays or when the office is closed.

How to set it up

1. Tell us who your phone provider is (it is in the form, or just reply to our email).
2. We send you the exact steps for your provider and phone system. For many mobile and business lines it is a short code you dial from the phone itself.
3. Make a test call from another phone to your normal business number. You should hear Hellora answer.
4. To switch forwarding off at any time, use the cancel step we send you.

> Forwarding codes differ between providers and phone systems. If something does not work the first time, do not worry: email us and we will walk you through it.

Your dashboard

Sign in at app.hellora.ca with your email. We send you a one-time sign-in link, so there is no password to remember.

- See every call, with a summary and the full transcript.
- See who booked and when.
- Spot calls that need a person to follow up.

Call summaries and alerts

After every call, you receive a summary by email. This is on for every customer, and it is all you need.

Optional: instant alerts on Telegram

If you would like a quick message on your phone each time a call finishes or an appointment is booked, you can also connect Telegram. It is completely optional. If you find it fiddly, skip it. Email already tells you everything.

1. Install the free Telegram app on your phone (if you do not have it).
2. Open your Hellora welcome email and tap Connect Telegram.
3. Tap Start in Telegram. You will receive a confirmation message.

Stuck? Email us and we will connect it for you.

Passing a call to a person

You choose when Hellora hands a call over to you or a colleague (for example urgent problems, or a caller who asks for a person) and which number it should ring. If nobody answers, Hellora takes a message and marks the call as needing a follow up.

Changing your information

Hours changed? New service? A question callers keep asking? Reply to any Hellora email, or write to hello@hellora.ca, and tell us what to update.

Need help?

Email	hello@hellora.ca (you can also just reply to any email from us)

When you write, include your business name and, if it is about a call, the caller's number and roughly when it happened. It helps us fix things faster.

Thank you for trusting Hellora with your phones.
